

Universal Health Care

AtMP calls for truly universal health care reform, and criticizes any reform that falls short of making access to health care marriage-neutral. Today, marriage is the on / off switch for access to health care in America. Marital status is a barrier not only to obtaining health insurance, but also to establishing hospital rights and to caring for significant others without job penalties.

In this section, you'll find information that is personal, political, and totally unique. No other organization is dedicated to ending marriage discrimination in health care.

Volunteers and interns are working with AtMP staff to research and write more special topics, so we expect to add many more pages to this section. Want to help? Click here to volunteer!

Or, click here to make a contribution so staff can spend less time fundraising and more time on health care advocacy.

This section includes

- National health reform: our analysis of what's wrong, and which proposals can make things right.
- Job-based health insurance: everything from how to get domestic partnership benefits, to which states will let you stay on your parents's plan after college.
- Hospital rights: from how to protect yourself and your loved ones, to our campaign to ensure that everyone has a real right to self-determination.
- AtMP's current grassroots actions: helping people like you speak out about health care!
- Your stories: AtMP has collected over 850 true stories about how marriage affects health care, by people like you from all over the USA. Meet some of your compatriots, or tell your own story .
- Health care blog: our posts about health care include commentary on the news, updates on our campaigns, and the latest on our research and analysis.
- Links to other resources

Want to learn more and get involved in AtMP's campaign for truly universal, marriage-neutral health care? Join our mailing list!