

Press Room

Working with the media is a core component of our mission at the Alternatives to Marriage Project.

We help journalists get beyond stereotypes to paint an accurate, nuanced portrait of unmarried people. We connect producers to experts as well as 'regular people' who are willing to share personal stories. And of course, we articulate advocacy positions as the only national nonprofit organization dedicated to ending discrimination on the basis of marital and relationship status.

In this section you'll find:

- Information for journalists, including suggestions for how to report about unmarried people, staff background and contact information, and more on AtMP's media services.
- Press release archive
- Media awards: AtMP members judge media coverage of Unmarried and Single Americans Week and other key events.
- AtMP In The Media - list of articles we have been featured in since 2007.

Journalists are invited to join AtMP's media mailing list to receive occasional press releases via email. Click here to sign up.
